What Is Needed

Today's workplace is increasingly decentralized with major functions and decisions being made in different cities, regions and countries around the world. Focus upon your clients is a priority to attract and increase business. And focus on employees is crucial to retaining that business. Organizations must provide communications and materials which address both employees and clients in a language they understand.

State-of-the-Art

Translation errors can result in costly losses, including damage to your reputation. PHRST's translation services take into account grammar and orthography, context and idioms. Our translations are performed by real live people, not translation software, thus providing a more reliable rendition of the original text. To the extent possible, our translators provide your document translations in the same format as your originals.

Knowledge, Skill & Ability

PHRST provides native speakers and professional translators from around the world. Each professional translator or interpreter possesses the cross-cultural and business experience necessary to complete your translation project, while at the same time conveying your core message. We strive to ensure that your message is not "lost in translation."

When, Where & For How Much

Breadth, depth and content of interpretation and translation vary widely. Submit your translation project to PHRST and we will return a professional fee and completion date quotation within 24 hours. Each interpretation or translation estimate is based upon time, language pairing and text complexity. We include sufficient time for proofreading and editing. Our translation professionals deliver your translated documents as close as possible to your original format.
